- Select your section and go to Advanced tab in Elementor
- Add Class or ID name in Advanced tab
- Open the Custom CSS dropdown (Pro version required)
- Open Customize Panel (Without Pro Version)
- Add the following code and save

selectorName

 display: none;

Control Visibility Through Display Settings

Additionally, you can fine-tune Elementor layout visibility using the built-in display settings.

Method	Description
Responsive Toggle	Show/hide on desktop, tablet, or mobile.
CSS Display	Hide using display:none in custom CSS

Hide a Section Without Deleting

Use the section options or the built-in Navigator if you just want to temporarily hide a section while designing. When you need to test layouts or postpone content without completely deleting it from the editor, this is perfect.

- Right-click anywhere on the page and select "Navigator" to launch the Navigator
- Right-click on the section you wish to conceal
- To deactivate the section, choose Disable from the menu
- To conceal the section from the visual editor without erasing it, you can also click the eye icon

This technique is particularly helpful for previewing design options or saving unused sections for later revisions if you're learning how to hide Elementor section in without erasing your content.
